HONGKONG, AUGUST 10TH. 1882.

THE progressive tendencies of the Chinese residents in Hongkong have received a sud den check. A scheme had been devised, and apparently carried into something more than the initial stage, by Chinese capitalists here and in Canton for the connection of the City of Rams with Kowloon by the telegraphic wire, and every preparation made for the construction of the line-the proposed route:for which was surveyed some months ago-when the crushing rows arrived from Peking that the Tsung-li Yamen would not sanction the undertaking, all idea of which must henceforth be abandoned. The intelligence arrived some days since from the North by telegram, and has of course been received with dismay by the plucky projectors of the scheme, who have incurred considerable expense and rendered them- for this port on the 8th inst. selves liable to more. For what inscrutable reason the Tsung-li Yamen have thus ruthlessly rejected a scheme which appeared to held this evening at the Temperance Hall, Major ing $20 rent, and $2.40 for taxes. Last Chinese to promote the public convenience, and thatwould have enabled the Central Government to with the Viceroy of the Two Kwang, we cannot promoters neglected to square some official. who in return has succeeded in capsizing their the Taung-Il Yamen was placed upon the scheme, consary for him to increase the charge upon the project. A Washington dispatch in the Alla California dated July 6th; saye-" The Navy officers here are discussing with much interest the recall of Commodore Shufeldt from China, where for over R year past he has been in the employ of the Chinose Government, superintending the construction of the Chinese Navy. It is generally agreed that Stufeldt's recall is due to the fact that the Chinese Government became aware that he had written a very severe letter to Mr. Sargent, when that gentleman was a Senator, against the Chinese, and among other things, had impugned the chastity of the Empress of China. His recall is reported here to be due to representations made by the Chinese Legation in Washington to the Home Government. At the Navy Department another story is told. Secretary Chandler said to-day that Commodore Shufeldt a few days ago telegraphed to the Navy Department that he had completed his mission to China, and asked to be placed in command of to make the following very just and sensible | the Asiatic squadron. Naval officers generally express themselves as displeased with Commodore Shufeldt's course while in China. As the diplomatic mission is completed, no other officer will be detailed on that duty. has the following concerning Captain Roper and his troubles :-A report was published yesterday by a contemporary that Captain A. Roper of the Anjer Herd had sold his ship for a large sum of money. and that his Chinese charterers had failed, by which failure Captain Roper had lost some thousands of dollars. A visit to William T. Coleman & Co. showed a reporter that the statement was without foundation in fact. As the days roll along, Captain Roper finds himself entangled deeper and deeper in the meshes of Yankoo law and technicalities, and troubles daily spring up, notil the British mariner heartily wishes he were far out-upon Britannia's ocean wave, where American customs officials cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. Yesterday morning about 400 Chinese boarded his vessel, lying at the seawall, and took up quarters for passage to Honolulu, for which port the Anjer Mendis destined assoon asshegets Indo-China Steam Navigation Co.'s Shares- On Petroleum in liaer clearance papers. To this action the Captain demurred and ordered them to leave the vessel, which they did in a very short while. Consul Bee, ever-faithful guardian of his chosen people, filed a most decided protest against this outrageous proceeding," and there and then met his fee on the quarter-deck and-was vanquished for the nonce.

BELEDING THE LION. At about 8 o'clock last evening a Chronicle reporter entered the cabin of the Anjer Head. There sat Captain Roper, resting his weary head in the palms of his hands, and buried in thought On his left stood a pint of milk, in front of him Hongkong and China Bakery Company, Limited a box of eigarettes. "Captain, I fear that you are in more trouble," volunteered the reporter. "I refuse to talk. You newspaper men have drauged me through the mud long enough. I am tired." The bristly mustache threw out its bairs like percupine quills. "I am going to keep my own counsel." This last remark was omphasized by a stroke of the fist on the table. "Your ship was seized this morning in the name of this great nation." "It was: I have given strict orders not to have any more bonds issued for me. I am sorry I ever gave bonds for anything I have done. I wish I had gone to jail. "When do you expect to leave this port !" "Not, sir"-his fist came down again-"not, sir, until I have fought my cases in the Courts, and if I cannot get justice here I can get it in Washington." A SCENE WITH CONSUL BEE.

"You had some trouble with Consul Bee this morning, did you not?" "Yes, young man. He tried to send on board 400 Chinese, first asking me if I wouldn't let them come and stay until I sailed for Honolulu as Chinatown is so crowded they had no place to stay. He sent them down. But do you think I'm going to take that gang on board this ship : have the smallpor break out among them and get quarantined for fifty five days, like the Altenower? No. sir. Well, he got into a blind rage at this, declared that they had a right to some on board as they had engaged their passage for Honelulu, and that I had to take them. I refused. Now he swears he's going to sue me. All right, says I to him. go and do it. Colonel. I'm a drenched man, and a few more buckets of water ain't not going to hurt me. But, sir," continued the Captain, "not one of those Chinese are going to come en

board this vessel until they show me tickets for Honolulu signed by William T. Coleman & Co."

A TABOORD KINGDOM.

"Why is Colonel Bes going to cause you Let me tell you. He claims that these Chinese have engaged passage from Hongkong to Honolulu. That is false, for the laws of England and China are strict against any English vessel carrying immigrants into the Hawaiian Islands, because both these nations believe that slavery exists there. I am now under bonds of £1,000 to the English Government for each passenger that I carry, and if I should take one of them into those Islands direct from any port in China or England, my vessel would be confiscated and sold, and my immense bonds for feited. No vessel is ever cleared for those Islands from Chins. So you see I could only agree to bring them to this port and now, when I am ready to sale for Honolulu, I will take those Chinese, but each and every one of them must have a ticket from William T. EXTRACTS.

I once loved to inttle with life's stormy waves, That bear mon, through trouble and triumph, to grave: But now the bold vigour of youth is no more, I yearn for the meadows and streamlets of yore. I see in them beauties that for me have slept, Till the silver groy looks 'mid the sable have erept And now, like a flood, the sweet memories flow Of the day of my childhood—summers ago; ... Each blossoming flow'ret and towering tree Some fond recollection embodies for me. Where the fragrance of roses floats sweet on the And the blossoms the impress of innocence bear. "Tis there my thought fly, like the bird to its nest, Where its little ones lovingly nestle at rest. From the turmoil of cities I lovingly look To the thyme-scented banks of some murmuring brook Far, far from this Babel of Mammon-rapt souls (Where the Juggernaut car of gaunt minory rolls) To a valley where violets lurk in the shade?

A NEW WEATHER COMPASS

The ordinary barometer has a popular renot justly entitled, for though it may occasionally indicate the approach of storms it is in no sense a reliable guide to the weather, even when it is compared with the hydrometer. In a short time the breath-gymnasiast loses all need of counting, and learn to know instictively where and when to stop, the mechanism of the exercise becoming, so to speak, solf-directing. A valuable subsidiary product of these exercises is the hominal gain which accrues to the ordinary business of breathing; the practised exerciser of the lungs in this manner comes insensibly and without forethought to take deeper and longer breaths of air, and the breast accuse toms itself by degrees to perform its obligations better than hitherto—that is to say, unturally, and without any effort of will or further particulars on application as above.

Mn. SPURGEON'S FARM SERMONS. It was in a rural parish that Mr. Spurgeon spent his boyhood. The first scene of his ministry, Waterbeach, in the Cambridge fens, was purely agricultural. It was at an Agricultural College that he received his education. Since his settlement in London he has always been in the habit every year of spending a good deal of his summer leisure in rustic quarters. We are not surprised, therefore, to receive from him a volume entitled "Farm Sermons."
